

We want a forum-based website that people can post about antiques. We want to be able to have a hidden classifieds section available only to registered users. We would like to have the forum load up only a few of the most recent posts unless the user browses to load older posts. Additionally, we want an Administration based role to enable complete control over users and content.